Our research delves into the transformative world of collaborative information systems in idea generation and evaluation. This includes exploring idea management systems, internal crowdfunding systems, and individual tools like brainstorming or brainwriting, with a focus on understanding the conditions under which these tools are most effective and efficient. In recent years, there has been a significant shift in organizational decision-making processes, characterized by a trend towards more inclusive and distributed decision-making supported by digital platforms. This opportunity aims to investigate this evolving landscape, offering a chance to contribute to the understanding of how organizations can more effectively generate, evaluate, and implement ideas in this new era of digital-enabled inclusivity.
