Rough outline of idea/position:

BIPS aims at developing effective strategies for the prevention of chronic, non-communicable diseases. The primary goal is to support a healthy life-course from an early stage onwards. The main research focus is on non-communicable diseases and their risk factors, such as lifestyle and environment, biological and social factors, as well as on early detection and drug safety. The research spectrum covers methodological developments, the identification of causes of diseases, and intervention and implementation research. BIPS also provides information to politicians and the general population, and offers opportunities for academic qualification and career development.

¹ MSCA Postdoctoral Fellowships are selected on the basis of annual calls for proposals. Forthcoming and open calls for proposals can be found on the Funding & tender opportunities Portal of the European Commission.
