5. Project idea/position (scientific requirements, topic, discipline):

Rough outline of idea/position:

Our research team is interested in improving the conceptual understanding of organizational and behavioral aspects of innovation management. We seek to enrich management practice through a quantitative empirical approach, validating our conceptually rooted research hypotheses. Projects are placed in different application areas and contexts, like healthcare and pharma innovation, implementation of block-chain solutions, or leadership and organization of distributed research and development teams.

We offer the opportunity of becoming part of an entrepreneurial new research team, with ample opportunities for developing interesting research projects in the area of Technology and Innovation Management. For this, we highly value teamwork, engagement, and willingness to experiment. Our research group is part of a larger environment at TU Berlin focusing innovation and entrepreneurship, including Innovation Economics, Innovation Marketing, and Entrepreneurship and Innovation.

We are located at the heart of Berlin at TU Berlin's main campus embedded in a dynamic local innovation and start-up eco-system. You will find more information about the research group at www.tim.tu-berlin.de
